ACC Reports and Surveys

Chief Legal Officers Survey

This global survey of over 1,000 GC and CLOs gauges the importance of issues, attitudes and opinions on legal and business topics, including those commonly used for benchmarking. If you are looking for data to make your case on resource allocation (outsource, insource), staffing or budget changes, this is the report you need. This report also highlights the impact of geopolitical events on business, incidence of regulatory investigations and the proportion hit by a cybersecurity attack.

Global Perspectives: ACC In-house Trends Report

An omnibus survey covering many important topics, this report highlights trends affecting global corporate legal practitioners. Over 2,000 in-house lawyers across 51 countries participated in the survey. Thirty-one percent of respondents are from countries outside of the US and 19 percent work in departments with 50 or more lawyers. Get up-to-date on the state of the in-house profession with data on career mobility, in-house privilege dynamics, cross-border work, the regulatory environment, cybersecurity preparedness, and more! The full report also features industry and regional profiles.

The ACC Law Department Management Report

A study of corporate law departments and their operations based on a survey of chief legal officers, general counsel, and legal operations professionals across 37 industries and 25 countries. Building on the chief legal officers survey and other ACC reports, this report discusses the qualities that drive high-performing legal operations in top law departments. This resource also contains benchmarks for guidance on the evolution of the general counsel as a strategic business partner.
