UPCOMING PROGRAMMING

CFPB V. CFSB | THE SUPREME COURT HEARS ANOTHER CFPB CASE. WHAT IS NEXT FOR THE AGENCY?

We will discuss the case on appeal from the Fifth Circuit holding that the CFPB's funding structure is unconstitutional, as well as the Second Circuit's opposite holding in CFPB v. Law Offices of Crystal Moroney, P.C.

We will discuss some of the legal arguments that have been made by both sides and how these cases, including the uncertainty that they have created, affect the CFPB's operations and the parties it regulates.

Meet the Board!

1

What do you do?

I am senior counsel for the reinsurance companies owned by General Electric Company. I support all things related to contracts - vendor contracts, technology deals, strategic relationships, reinsurance treaties, etc. - as well as some special projects related to compliance, legal operations, and the efforts to restructure the GE organization.

FUN FACT!

I NEVER THOUGHT I WOULD BE A LAWYER UNTIL MY LAST YEAR IN COLLEGE. I ABSOLUTELY LOVED MATH WHEN I WAS YOUNG. I REMEMBER MY FATHER TELLING ME THAT I SHOULD BE AN ACTUARY BECAUSE I COULD SPEND MY DAYS DOING MATH. (SIDE NOTE - YES, I WAS A NERDY 12 YEAR OLD TELLING PEOPLE THAT I WANTED TO BE AN ACTUARY WHEN I GREW UP.) NOW I WORK WITH ACTUARIES EVERY DAY ... SO I GUESS THIS IS THE CLOSEST I'LL EVER GET TO MY DREAM JOB!

3

How has ACC helped your career?

Let me count the ways... I have really enjoyed the great people I've met through ACC, especially at events and in the Financial Services Network (FSN). I often leverage the on-demand content and the written reference materials. Participating in the network forums really pays off. You can ask any question and inevitably you'll get at least a few responses. Don't hesitate to ask a question or join the conversation -- your fellow members are there for you!
